Change Your World Through the Arts

In today's fast-paced world, expressive and creative arts offer powerful tools for growth, helping individuals tap into their full potential and enhance their work in fields ranging from counseling and education to health care and community leadership.

Our expressive and creative arts training program is designed to inspire positive transformation in individuals and groups through creative expression. Using a multi-modal and inter-modal approach to the arts, the program integrates visual arts, movement, sound, theater and expressive writing. Classes are designed in a hybrid format, featuring experiential weekend immersions, along with guided independent study modules.

Students who wish to enter the program have the option of completing either the foundation course, HLC514: Foundations of Expressive Arts and Creative Arts As Transformation, or Salve's Expressive Arts Institute foundations course during summer, in the professional applications of the expressive and creative arts.

You will engage in hands-on experiential work while exploring the theories, research and practical applications of these arts in a variety of fields. Counseling, therapy, education, health care or community work are among the many professional fields in which the arts can impact in meaningful ways.

Who Will Benefit?

Salve Regina's graduate certificate in expressive and creative arts is designed for practitioners who hold a bachelor's or master's degree and are seeking continued professional development.

To create synergistic dual training in expressive arts therapy and clinical mental health counseling, students may co-enroll in one of our graduate programs in counseling. Students with a bachelor's degree pursue the certificate of graduate studies, while students with a master's degree and students who are co-enrolled in one of our master's degree programs pursue the certificate of advanced graduate studies.
