LOVE WHERE YOU STUDY: A COMMUNITY ON A MISSION

While some just want to earn a degree and get a great job or grad school placement, Salve students are looking for something more. They know that they can chart a path to success AND make a meaningful impact on the world in the process. They are drawn to Salve's unique mission, guided by the Critical Concerns set forth by the Sisters of Mercy, our founding order, to work for a world that is harmonious, just and merciful.

You aren't looking for just any college. You are seeking one that offers you a clear plan for your success (the Salve Compass), allows you to live and study in a one-of-a-kind place (Newport, Rhode Island), and will help you to become your best self...someone who will leave their mark. We present you with Salve Regina University.

Our Home: Newport

Salve students dive into Newport through countless experiential learning opportunities including the Summer Compass Program, internships, field work, student-teaching, community service and more. With so many ways to become involved, our students make themselves at home by getting to know their neighbors and communities.

Whether exploring Newport's shops, restaurants, museums and galleries or taking a step back in time by visiting Bellevue Avenue Historic District, you'll find plenty to do and see. Our spectacular Ocean Drive, Cliff Walk and beaches offer breathtaking scenery for those who love the great outdoors, and between festivals and year-round events, there is always something to do.

Cliff Walk's amazing scenery combines Newport's shoreline with the architectural history of the Gilded Age.

Many movies and TV shows have been filmed here, including "The Gilded Age" and "Hocus Pocus 2."

Newport is one of the world's top sailing destinations and is home to The Sailing Museum and National Sailing Hall of Fame.

Newport is walkable and bikeable, and Salve students enjoy free trolley transportation.

Newport is considered one of the top surfing spots in New England.

COLLEGE-TO-CAREER WORKSHOP

Designed to develop career readiness competencies, Sophomore Studio is a conference-style workshop that allows students to explore the variety of career and life paths available. Students attend sessions on résumé building, interview strategies, networking tips and other skills required for personal and professional success.

"The networking experience provided students with an amazing opportunity to meet Salve alumni and leaders in the community!"

- Caitlin M., Class of '27

"I truly feel so much better equipped to go into the world as a professional. I am now thinking about many different pathways for these next few years that I hadn't previously considered."

- Louisa R., Class of '27

EXPLORING BEYOND THE CLASSROOM

Salve students can cap off their sophomore year with Compass Summer, a one- or two-week immersive learning experience allowing them to explore a new area or expand on their established academic journey. The project-based experience helps our students build the skills employers are seeking, develop expertise in tackling the critical concerns facing our world, and connect more deeply to the cultural, historic and environmental richness of Newport.

Lexi Callaghan

Majors: Dance, Biology

Program: Jazz Dance in Newport led by Dr. Lindsay Guarino

"While in the program, I was able to make connections with every single person in my jazz dance community. We all actively and equally participated in understanding the importance of learning and listening from direct sources of the work we do in the classroom. Our program addressed anti-racism and women, and our main goal is to acknowledge that jazz dance is a Black American art form that should be respected and represented. We were taken to the Newport Jazz Festival to feel the music and connect to it on a personal level and try to understand our place in the work of social justice."

John Pelrine

Major: Cultural and Historic Preservation

Program: Archaeology and Preservation in Rhode Island led by Dr. Heather Rockwell

"The highlight of the program in my opinion was having an archaeological dig at the Rham House in nearby Bristol, as I have always wanted to be an archaeologist — and this was the first time I felt I was actually doing archaeological work by myself with my peers, which was tons of fun. I also am much more well-rounded and have a better understanding for my future classes. The amount of hands-on experience I received during the program gave me a window as to how my career would be if I continued in this field of work."

COMPASS VITAE

Take what you've learned and go deeper through hands-on learning opportunities that allow you to put theory into practice. Salve students gain experience and effect change through internships, fieldwork, community service, study abroad and the many ways in which they partner with local, regional and national businesses and organizations.

GLOBAL PERSPECTIVE

Learning and living through the lens of an ever-expanding world view is what Salve students do best. Whether by attending on-campus lectures and activities such as Multicultural Education Week or by studying abroad through one of our many international program partnerships, students become part of something bigger as they connect with others and discover who they want to be.

WELCOME TO THE ULTIMATE CELEBRATION

The Compass Summit is the time to celebrate all that has been accomplished. From hands-on experiences in our innovative Center for Business Outreach, the Pell Center for International Relations and Public Policy, state-of-the-art studios and laboratories, and our one-of-a-kind location in a community that attracts visitors from across the globe, our students are ready to share their Salve story.

FACULTY WHO INSPIRE AND PROFESSIONAL CONNECTIONS THAT LEAD TO OPPORTUNITY

At Salve, students make an impact on their communities and careers – all while preparing for a future filled with possibility. Through research opportunities, presentations and networking, Salve students are uniquely prepared to answer the call of what the world needs. We know this is true – because they're already doing it.

In recent years, our business students made it to the Microsoft Excel Collegiate Challenge finals in Las Vegas, Nevada, placing 12th as a team against competitors from more than 100 countries and territories.

Salve students with a passion for theatre arts have taken their talents to Broadway for a concert performance in partnership with Manhattan Concert Productions. After being chosen to audition, 22 Salve actors performed in the "Children of Eden" concert alongside industry leaders at the Vivian Beaumont Theater at Lincoln Center.

Unlock an Unforgettable Campus Experience

A once-in-a-lifetime experience awaits you at Salve, where you can explore your passions and discover new things about the world and yourself.

Whether you choose to hold a student leadership role, volunteer your time at one of our many partner organizations where your gifts will make a big impact, or try something new like ping pong, you'll build friendships that last a lifetime. Here, you'll find a supportive and collaborative campus environment where you are seen and valued, where every action and interaction inspire growth.

SEAHAWK SPIRIT

Whether you compete on one of our 20 NCAA Division III varsity teams, participate in club and intramural sports or cheer from the sidelines, becoming a Seahawk means joining a community dedicated to collective success. As a member of the New England Women's and Men's Athletic Conference (NEWMAC), Salve is aligned with premier institutions that champion academic and athletic excellence.

Newport's Classic Coast Inspires Academic Excellence and Community Impact

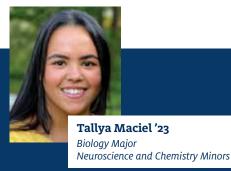

With a bustling downtown and stunning ocean views, Newport is a popular vacation destination for millions of visitors from around the world. But this resort community is more than just a pretty face. Our location connects students more deeply to the cultural, historic and environmental richness of Newport and Aquidneck Island through experiential learning, service projects and internships.

Transforming Cancer Research

As an undergraduate and first-generation college student, Tallya co-founded the Association of Student Researchers, which enabled her to share her passion and inspire other students from across disciplines to explore opportunities for research. Now a research technician at Dana Farber Cancer Institute in Boston, Tallya is in the lab every day and credits Salve for helping her land the position. "You make such amazing connections at Salve. When I got my diploma, I knew that I had used every single ounce of opportunity."

Building Financial Futures

As an undergraduate studentathlete, Anthony created the mental health initiative "Salve Hockey Mental Health Night," which raised over $10,000 for mental health awareness. Now, as a financial advisor associate with Carney

Peterson Wealth Management Group, Anthony finds his experience working with mental health to be an important asset in his field. "Salve helped me build a skill set that I could place into any professional role. I learned how to communicate with others in a way that's altruistic – it's important to show people that they're being taken care of, so having that prior experience was huge for me."

The Power of Storytelling

A storyteller at heart, Ciara's career in broadcast journalism has taken her from "man on the street" interviews on Salve's campus to senior evening news anchor for WWLP-22 News in Springfield, Massachusetts. "At a young age, I knew that I wanted to be a voice for those without through the field of journalism. Salve provided me with the unique tools and skill sets that I needed to discover my creative talents and prepared me to be an outstanding advocate and journalist. Looking forward, I hope to continue to have the privilege to be a role model and inspire those around me to strive for excellence in whatever career path that they choose."

Leading the Way in Cybersecurity

Multiple internships propelled Jeremy to an accomplished career in cybersecurity, where he specializes in advising organizations on information security best practices. "Salve set me up for success by building practical experience via internships. I had the opportunity to intern for Raytheon's cybersecurity unit, which added tremendous value, both technical and non-technical, to my resume. I was fortunate to get a full-time job offer with a consulting company two months before I even graduated." An industry leader who is regularly featured.

company two months before I even graduated." An industry leader who is regularly featured in media, blog posts, podcasts and speaking events, Jeremy attributes his achievements to intensive networking. "Invest in yourself by building relationships. Make the most of connecting with your professors and staff, because you never know where your path will lead in the future. Remember, it's not who you know, it's who knows you."

Innovative Ideas Making a Difference

Jordan's gift for connecting with people serves him well in his role as associate development director at Innovation Studio in Boston. He began his work in the startup community while at Salve by helping launch Innovate Newport; his latest project is working to create a directory of startup resources students can tap into in Boston, Rhode Island and New York City. "Salve Regina University, and especially the faculty in the business department, played a pivotal role in nurturing my entrepreneurial spirit, helping guide me to where I am today. The internship course I took during my senior year paved the way to my present job, allowing me to continue contributing to the startup ecosystem. I am a firm believer in the idea that your network is your net worth, a belief that started during my time at Salve, where I began forging many valuable connections."

Ciara Marro-Wilson '23Biochemistry Major 3+3 PharmD Program

Making Patients the Priority

"During my first year at Salve, I remember getting the notification that Salve had just developed the 3+3 program with Saint Joseph's – and I was so excited. I always think of it as fate that Salve developed this program, because if they didn't – I wouldn't be here right now. I am now in my third year as a Doctor of Pharmacy candidate at Saint Joseph's, and the youngest in my class. I think being younger gives me an advantage, as completing pharmacy school in six years is pretty unique, and the structure and pace of 3+3 program has shown me that I can complete any challenge I set my mind to. The skills I have learned at Salve have helped me to excel and be comfortable in new environments like this."

Jerry Haas '17
Secondary Education and Mathematics Major

A Commitment to Education

With a strong passion for collaboration and learning, being inside of a classroom has been Jerry's goal for as long as he can remember. A local resident, he recalls the large impact many of his educators have had on his journey. At Salve, he gained hands-on experience through the University's secondary education program, observing classrooms at four different high schools in the state. After spending time teaching mathematics, Jerry was recently appointed principal of Gaudet Middle School in Middletown, RI. "The most helpful components of Salve's program were the various field placements I was able to experience. These different classroom experiences helped to craft my teaching style and helped lead me to where I am today."

Invest in a Meaningful Future

At Salve Regina, being a supportive, student-centered community isn't just something we value, it's who we are. From the moment you connect with us, we're committed to walking alongside you, helping make your Salve journey a reality. Our admissions and financial aid counselors are here to build meaningful, lasting relationships with you and your family, offering personalized guidance, encouragement, and care. This is part of our mission: to make a Salve education accessible, personal, and possible, so you can grow in knowledge, compassion, and purpose from day one.
